

End of Season Celebration

TEAM PARTY

An End of Season Celebration or Team Party depends greatly on the age of the kids and what works for each individual team. As team manager, this task generally falls to you to arrange. It can be as simple as cupcakes, punch and trophies at the field after your last game or a pizza party at a family friendly pizza place, or whatever you feel is most appropriate for your age level and parents. Do what is best for your situation and team as a whole. Listen to your coaches and parents...what may be best for you, might not work for them. Finally...it's about the kids and ending their season on a positive note...no more, no less.

First! Talk to your coaches. Ask what they think is appropriate and work around their schedule.

Then...Talk to your parents.

Finally...Make sure all the kids can attend!

Find and Arrange for a location. Remember that all team parents are doing this at the same general time. At the team party, participation pins, and yearbooks will be handed out. Most coaches like to say something positive about each player when handing them their trophy. Thank the coaches and refs! Generally, present/gifts are presented to the coaches from the team/team parents at this time. Share photos that have been taken throughout the season. Invite parents to participate. It's up to the coach, your team, and you how you handle the end of the season celebration.
